Tutoring Experience

I began tutoring IB Psychology six years ago after completing my MSc in Clinical Psychology. My focus has been on helping students excel in the cognitive and biological domains of psychology. I've supervised Internal Assessments and guided students through their Extended Essays, ensuring they meet and exceed curriculum standards.

Beyond IB, I've worked with A-Level and AP students, tailoring sessions to address the unique demands of their curricula. My experience includes preparing students for university-level challenges, particularly in psychology's biological aspects, by using practical examples and data analysis.

Having taught students from Europe, Asia, and North America, I've developed a deep appreciation for diverse learning styles. Whether preparing for exams or exploring research-based topics, I aim to support my students in achieving their goals while igniting their passion for psychology.
